

Salary Negotiation

Litmus V2 career/resume RAG knowledge-base document.

Timing

The best time to negotiate salary is after receiving a formal offer and before accepting it, when the candidate generally has the most leverage.

Employer-first anchoring

Letting the employer state a figure first can avoid anchoring too low; naming a number first risks anchoring below the employer's budget.

Other negotiable elements

Negotiable elements can include signing bonus, equity or stock options, remote/flexible work, vacation days, start date, professional development budget, and other benefits.

Market research

Research comparable market and industry salary data before negotiating to provide a factual, data-backed basis for a counteroffer.
